

Beacon Vets Stock Control

This is the data field in which the user must enter their username and password.

This screenshot shows my system when it is opened. The user is presented with the log in interface in which they need to enter a user-name and password.

Username:

Password:

Sign In

This is the button that the user must press when they have entered their username and password.

Forgot Username or Password?